This distinguished Islamic Scholars become in mainstream as representatives of Muslim Umma. Turkish transition to democratic multi-party system helps to united for political parties and social groups which considering religious aspects in public life. In the middle of twentieth century Turkish political ground rebuild and changed from grass root level. Various opportunities open for pro religious movements to participate in election. In the beginning of twentieth century a series of economical and political shocks led to new election in 2002 bringing into power the religiously conservative Justice and Development Party (AK Party) of former mayor of Istanbul, Recep Tayyip Erdoğan. The inter connection between politics and religion has become more delicate in turkey and world even they are following their secular concepts. The AKP introduced a new regime of modern concept of Islam and religious intellectual ideology. They treated religious affairs as a necessary and important matter in human life but they are not introducing religion in the public directly. The relation between state and religion is controversial in Turkish politics. If we see the Turkey there haven't any symbols or sign's about Islamic influence in modern secular Turkish politics directly. In depth, AKP is using Islamic intellectuals and theories for developing the country. They are motivated and guided by democratic conservatism. The Islamic revivalism of Turkey is very different from others, which has a special roots and method. Turkey's new policies are ideologically motivated by Islam and Islamic teachings. But political methods and international dealing are very favorable by Europe and USA; they are ready to accept Turkish Islam (Erdoğan's Islam). In this paper, I'm trying to finding the emergence and development of Islamic trends and culture in the post Kemalist Turkey. First of all I will analyze how developing Islam and Islamic teaching is when Turkish people are following modernity and secularism in their all part of the life, and experiences of AK Party. Secondly I will analyze briefly what the recent global attraction to Turkish religious and socio-political life under ruling of AKP. In conclusion I will clear how AKP introduced a new regime of modern concept of Islam and religious intellectual ideology and development of Islamic trends and culture in the post Kemalist Turkey.*

1. Introduction

Turkey is one of the oldest continuously inhabited regions in the world with marvelous history and politics regimes. When discussing history of Turkey, it is always difficult to know from which period to actually begin with according to some historians that the history of the Turks begins when Turks from central Asian region migrated and settled in Anatolia in the 11C. Ottoman caliphate was one of the most powerful empires in the world. Centralized administration, experienced governors and logical strategic planning clear the way for the establishment of powerful empire in the world. Towards twelfth century Turkey favored by Islam and Muslim empires which built the height of its power under the brilliant leaderships of various Ottoman Sultans including Suleiman the magnificent (1494-1566) its reached height of development and economical power in the world. The conquest of Constantinople is regard as one of the most remarkable and heroic events in the world history. It was one of major goal of Islam and Islamic Khilafath. Prophet Muhammad (Peace be upon him) has declared the hints in the Hadith about the conquest of Constantinople by Muslim emperor. In the time of Ottoman Empire, the state considers Islam as a basic religion and main source of moral and ethical values of the kingdom. This reasoned for innumerable growth of religion. Modern sciences, philosophy and various branches of knowledge are developed by credit of Islamic teaching and theories. This phenomenon impacted over the world and discussed as a very hot subject. European countries were feeling uncomfortable in the development of the Ottoman Empire. Small European territories made and planed to restart the crusades against Muslims. But Ottomans entered in European continent which open lot of opportunities to conquer other parts of the world. In the end of nineteenth century Ottoman power became very week and decentralized. Thanzimath helps to solve sultanate's problems but the public affected various disturbances and troubling such as financial and administrating poor situation increased day by day so public searched for new government and new country which favored equality and modernization. In the beginning of the 20th century the Empire faced challenges in defending itself against foreign invasion and occupation. Internal weakness, unemployment, food crisis...etc increased in the in the empire. In the same time Arab world was also effected modernization and nationality. New nationalist regimes in Turkey abolished the Ottoman's sultanate. The decline of Ottoman Empire is mostly considering the Khilafath in the world which had been continuing after Prophet Mohammed (Peace be upon him).

2. Kemalism and Revolution

Young Turks is one of most powerful revolutionary and nationalist reform party in Turkey under leadership of Kemal Ataturk. They united and made policies to develop the Turkey and decline the ottoman monarchy. Kemal Ataturk united the people through very effective and well planned ideas as Gandhi united freedom fighters in India. In the beginning Ataturk implemented various ideas and methods in light of Islamic intellectual method. So millions of people attracted and joined in the Young Turks. When Ataturk reaches in the central power of Turkey, rearrange and renovate the cultural and social life of Turks in the style of European modernity. So Turkey becomes ultra secular country. He ordered to wipe Islamic symbols and cultural signatures from the country. He set out the process of making modern Turkey by establishing political and cultural institution both to break the Ottoman past and reach in the contemporary level of western civilization. The process of secularization and modernity was adopted in the hope that the symbolic and cultural role of religion in the formation of national identity would decline. Since 1924 a number of crucial laws leading to the new era of Turkey as planned by Kemal Ataturk. Education was left to the monopoly of the state, the Caliphate was abolished and the religious schools (the madrassa) were outlawed. The adaptation of Swiss civil code and removal of religions laws (the Sharia) from the criminal law started a controversial situation in Turkey between the traditional communities.

3. Modernization of Turkey

The adoption of Latin alphabets were all realized the aim of establishing the secularization and modernity, thereby removing religious believe and symbols from the process of modern state building and its consolidation. The separation between state and religion become so strict in the Turkish state basically it was total removal of religion from state. The Ottoman Empire was still in existence, with its heritage of religious, cultural, dynastic authority. The dynasty was abolished by the Ankara Government, but its traditions and cultural symbols remained among people. Ataturk's political reforms involved a number of fundamental institutional changes that would see the end of these traditions, and a carefully planned program of political change was implemented to unravel the complex system that had developed over the centuries. The secular-Kemalist country is not antitheist or anti Islamic. In fact Kemalist state's support for Islam was controlled under the Directorate for Religious Affairs (Diyanet İşleri Başkanlığı) which asserted religious equality and free rights for religious activities in the personal life; he was escape Turkish democracy from religious circle. Religion and religious controversial matters, particularly Islam, has become one of the most difficult and dilemmatic subject between intellectuals and scholars.

Let us focus our attention on the Muslim intelligentsia at the end of the nineteenth century and beginning of the twentieth century. Turkish intellectual platform reversed about religion and religious space in public life. Various methods and ideas remarked by Islamic intellectuals and scholars. Modernization and religious revivalism happened in Middle East and south Asia by influences of Shaheed Hassan Al Banna, Shaheed Sayyid Qutub, Muhammed Abdu, Abul A'la Maududi. Ali Shariethi, Imam Khumaini and many others. Religious revivalism of Turkey was exposed by method of Islam in the concept of modernization, secularism and politics. Turkish Islamic scholars are very modern and their representations are very appreciated by international intellectuals. Gulan movement, Nursi and Naqshbandhi Silsila are very active in grass root level of Turkey. They are presenting is a final solution for problematic condition of the modern world.

4. Islamic Trends and Culture in Post Kemalist Turkey

Socio-political situation of Turkey totally changed and developed in the post Kemalist regime. Cultural clash and ideological developments situated in public life. The identity crisis of Turkish Muslims caused to variable clash in the country. Some Muslims supported Kemalist ideology and others were ignored. However the Islamic trends and culture reversed in the Turkey with powerful ideological support. In fact there has been an increasing of dialogue about religion and politics in academic world and public discourse in the pro Kemalist regime. Especially After the revolution of Iran under Aythulla Khumaini West Asian countries earn the religious political ideology. The concept of secularism and modernity redefine by Islamic scholars and utilize for growing the mileage of political Islam. Obviously, Muslim brotherhood, Al Nahda such as the Muslim parties born in the West Asia. This parties represented modern concept of political Islam and rereading of Shariath law. This ideology transformed number of social systems in the world.

E. Fuat Keyman <sup>1</sup>(Modernity, Secularism and Islam the Case of Turkey) indicates that “the interconnection between politics and religion has become much more delicate in Turkey since the 1990s, as a result of the rise of Islam politically, economically and culturally. The formation of Turkish modernity has radically changed as Islamic identity claims become more (1) politicized, giving rise to political Islam realized through political parties, the most recent example being the success of the Justice and Development Party (AKP)<sup>4</sup> in the 3 November 2002 national election and its formation of a single-party majority government; (2) economically grounded, as Islam has begun to function as ‘a powerful network based upon trust relations’ among small and medium economic enterprises, establishing a very powerful economic actor, that is, the Independent Business and Industrialist Organization (the MUSIAD),<sup>5</sup> which aims to promote a morally loaded economic modernization, founded upon a combination of free market and traditional religious values; and (3) culturally loaded recognition demands, as in the case of the ‘headscarf affair’ and religious sects.<sup>6</sup> Moreover, as Islamic identity claims have become more and more pluralized and multi-dimensional, they have also begun to operate mainly as group-based demands for religious rights and freedoms within the domain of Turkish modernity. In other words, Islamic identity claims and their plural and multi-dimensional nature do not constitute an anti-modern discourse about religious self, but rather a politics of identity operating within modernity and demanding recognition. Today, it is not possible to think of Turkish modernity without reference to Islam. Nor is it possible to think of Turkish secularism as uncontested. In fact, the changing nature of Turkish modernity has been marked, to a large extent, by the crisis of Turkish secularism.” Since 1980s Turkish peoples witnessed a religious political scenario, which open distinguished scope of political developments, human rights and religious freedom. Turkish case of development of Islamic trends and culture is very different from other West Asian countries. They implemented Islamic trends in the society by modern methods and with keeping secular face of Turkey.

After the second world war the resurgence of Islam in Turkey increased by formation of various political parties. Turkish transition to democratic multi-party system helps to united for political parties and social groups which considering religious aspects in public life. The vital role and power of Islamic ideology has immensely expanded and changed from grass rout level since 1980s, especially in the 1990s. Various pro Kemalist groups rethink about concepts of democratization of country its aim is not to discriminate of human rights and religious freedom; it should be consider rights of citizens. The intellectual and ideological contribution of Sayid Nursi, Fatehulla Gulan and Nejmudeen Erbakan...etc helps the emergence of society in the proper way. This distinguished Islamic Scholars become in mainstream as representatives of Muslim Umma.

5. Islam and National Outlook Movement in Turkey

Nejmudeen Erbakan was the Prime Minister of Turkey from 1996 until 1997. He was Turkey's first Islamist Prime Minister. Erbakan's political religious concept was very controversial subject in that time. Various intellectuals and scholars criticize and some others support the ideology of Nejmudeen Erbakan. He tried to apply Islamic ideology in modern concept to reshape the country but even he succeed in their military courted his power and government by law of secularism. The multi party system has been helped to rearrange Turkish democracy and Turkish intellectual sector. In the beginning of twentieth century a series of economical and political shocks led to new election in 2002 bringing into power the religiously conservative Justice and Development Party (AK Party) of former mayor of Istanbul, Recep Tayyip Erdoğan. The relation between state and religion become controversial in Turkish politics.

6. Sayyid Nursi and Fathehulla Gulan

The contribution of Sayyid Nursi helps the Turkish Muslims to live in Islamic teachings. His Islamic activism was mainly concentrate on spiritual life of Muslims rather than as a political ideology. He played a vital role in the revival of Islam in Turkey and now numbers several millions of followers worldwide. His literatures are still famous in the world, Risale Nur...etc. which helps the intellectual support for Turkish Muslims.

Fathehulla gulan and his movement is one of most contemporary movement in Turkey. It concerns itself with forms of action, content and meanings that are qualitatively different from the tradition of struggle frequently seen in European societies. The Gülen Movement recognizes the need for a new and inclusive synthesis arising from the past but based upon universal values and modern realities. The Movement therefore emphasizes a different array of factors, including values, such as equality, freedom, dignity, altruism, good life, ecology and morality, needs and issues which the socio-political structure fails to implement. The Gülen Movement originated in 1970s' Turkey as a faith-inspired initiative to improve educational opportunities for a local community; since then, it has grown into a transnational educational, inter-cultural and interfaith movement. It is estimated that participants number in several millions. The Gülen Movement has securely established respected institutions (of different kinds, but mostly schools) on every continent. Fethullah Gülen holds religion to be far above politics; he sees it as a source of morality and ethics, which are relevant to, not in conflict with, responsible politics. He does not want religion to become a tool of politics because when politics fails and goes awry people may blame religion. He does not want political aspirations to blemish religion or their potential for corruption to degrade it<sup>2</sup>.

7. Islamic Revival in Turkey by the Akp

After Kemal Ataturk Islam and Islamic ideology gets a new space in Turkish people. They reshape the concepts of secularism and modernity. The installation of Islamic intellectuals and principles by AKP in Turkish politics are very controversial. The AKP interconnected state and religion in modern and conservative method. In this study I will attempt to provide a critical and historical analysis and developments of the relationship between the religion and state in secular Turkey and impact on world. After the jasmine revolution various Arab countries are considering Turkey as a role model of Islamic politics in modern world through secular and democratic figure.

The charismatic personality of Recep Tayyip Erdoğan has immensely increased the mileage of Turkish politics in the world from his first day of political life. AKP's various policies and strategy develop Turkey and become one of the most economical and powerful countries in the world. Various political concept of Recep Tayyip Erdoğan become very controversial topic in the world, which celebrated by various Medias and academicians as an "ISLAMISATION OF TUREKY" but AKP deal the crisis very maturely and punctually. The implementation of religious freedom was very controversial in the mainstream, especially freedom for wearing Hijab. But Turkey was one of role model for all countries as freedom for religious and cultural activities for citizens. However the political improvements of Turkey misunderstand. Obviously Recep Tayyip Erdoğan called as an "Islamist". From last 10 years of his political life he nothing use about Islam or Islamisation but he interfered in the Middle East issues and Muslim's crisis. The foreign minister Ahmet Davutoğlu visit Myanmar for giving aid and support for Muslim minority who massacred by Buddhists. The inter connection between politics and religion has become more delicate in turkey and world even they are following their secular concepts. The AKP introduced a new regime of modern concept of Islam and religious intellectual ideology. They treated religious affairs as a necessary and important matter in human life but they are not introducing religion in public directly. If we see the Turkey there haven't any symbols or sign's about Islamic influence in modern secular Turkish politics directly. In depth, AKP is using Islamic intellectuals and theories for developing the country. They are motivated and guided by democratic conservatism.

The Islamic revivalism of Turkey is very different from others, which has a special roots and method. Turkey's new policies are ideologically motivated by Islam and Islamic teachings. But political methods and international dealing are very favorable by Europe and USA; they are ready to accept Turkish Islam (Erdogan's Islam).
